
Less Time, Less Money, Less Hassle

You need me because your organization must train your workers in...

WHMIS

Computer based Generic WHMIS training as accessible as your keyboard, 24 hours a day, at home or at work. No need to interrupt production

WHMIS training that satisfies all provincial and federal legislative requirements.

Participants can work through the four modules of the program in one session or several sessions.

Testing occurs at the end of each module

Test questions are randomly assigned each session, so no two employees receive the same test

The system marks the tests and prints out certificates for each successful participant and the employer.

Due diligence requirements including a list of employees who have attempted the course, a list of successful/unsuccessful results and computer dates for each employee are produced by the system.

Seasonal or new employees can complete training before they start work. No delays to wait for a session to be set up

No additional costs for brochures training materials, facility rental or trainers

Quick review summary sheet can be printed for future reference on the job.
